WEDNESDAY MORNING ... OCTOBER 24, 1866

PROVOKING CIVIL WAR. If the trouble in Maryland does not culm nate in scenes of violence, perhaps in civil war, it will not be for lack of treasonable incitements on the part of the radical press. The case is one completely within the jurisdiction of the State authorities of Maryland -civil, legal case—and there is no more need of outside interference than there was when Gov. FENTON investigated charges against the police commissioners of New York city. But some of the radicals are predetermin that blood shall be shed in order that they may lay it at the door of the White House. Boston Advertiser of Monday morning closed an article with the paragraph below, which was characterized by the Bostor Transcript of the same afternoon as "significant remarks." The italicising is ours :

"Some of the warmer friends of the Police munissioners do not hesitate to make a rect appeal to the Northern people for-med assistance in case of trouble and for Protection from this quarter, even against Federal bayonets, if the President seeks to intervene. We trust and believe that matters will not come to such a pass as this, but perhaps the surest safeguard against it is the knowledge that such help, if asked for, would be forthcoming, and without stint."

A few months ago to talk of resisting "Federal bayonets" was treasonable down this way, albeit some of the Boston orators and some of the Boston press have gained audiences and readers only by assaulting with tongue and pen the powers that be. It is true that the Baltimore American, in April, 1861, counseled resistance to Federal bayonets in their march through Maryland for the defence of the capital and to make a stand against the rebellion, but it afterwards repented, and is now intensely loyal, but after the war had A few months ago to talk of resisting up by the War Department.

It is nothing less than foul incendiarism to say to one of the excited parties in Mary-"resist your Governor; resist the Federal bayonets if Tue Passtneys should order them there to enforce the laws and we will help your armed resistance 'without stint.'" It is true that these are mere words of the gassiest sort, for not a man would leave New England to engage in such a fight, and least of all would any come from the Advertiser office to the rescue of the Commissioners Such stuff may be characterized as Colonel JOHN W. JONES, of Hull, characterizes political rectitude-"it is all bosh." But it serves, nevertheless, to foment strife and is mischievous in the extreme.

The Commissioners' case will be finally settled by the proper courts, and there will be no need for armed attacks or armed resistance if parties out of the State will mind

The Payment of the Tax on Cotion Important Regulations by the Commissioner of Internal Rev-

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue yesterday issued additional regulations concerning the transportation of cotton in bond, in which provision is made for the payment of tax at the point of shipment instead of in the district of production. The Commissioner was induced to take this action upon the representation of cotton growers that much hardship and inconvenience is entailed upon the smaller planters and farmers in the interior counties of the cotton-producing districts in consequence of the enforcement of recent regulations concerning the removal of cotton in bond, and that additional and much-needed facilities would be afforded by allowing bonds for sesuring payment of the tax upon delivery of the cotton at the point of the receiving district, instead of the collector of the receiving district, instead of the collector of the district whence the cotton is shipped, as provided by regulations, series 2, No. 5, issued under date of July 31, 1866. Under the additional regulations referred to parties desirous of bringing cotton to reapports or other places for shipment from other districts will be allowed to do so upon executing and delivering to the collector of the district where such seaport or place is situated, a bond, with two or more sufficient sureties, approved by the collector receiving it, conditioned for the payment of the tax upon all cotton for which permits may be granted by the assessor of the district in which such cotton may be granted.

After giving the form of the bond for transportation, the Commissioner says:

"This bond must be executed in a penal sum equal to double the amount of the tax on the quantity of cotton intended to be removed and in transitu at any one time during its continuance, and assessors will be a carful not to grant further permits upon two bods and the payment of the tax on the quantity of cotton intended to be removed and in transitu at any one time during its continuance, and assessors will be a carful not to grant further permits upon the continuance and assessors The Commissioner of Internal Revenue

Opinion of Hon. Reverdy Johnson

Opinion of Hon. Reverdy Johnson in the Case of the Baltimore Police Commissioners.

Has the Governor, in the recess of the General Assembly, the power to remove the Police Commissioners of the city for "official misconduct?" I have no doubt that he has.

The words of the law are so plain as to admit of but one construction. The duties of the Board are prescribed, and to guard against failure to perform them (a contingency that might happen) the law says: "for official misconduct, any of the said Commissioners may be removed by a concurrent vote of the two Houses of the General Assembly, or by the Governor during the recess thereof."

This is the only provision on the subject. The offence guarded against is "official misconduct." The penalty for it is not fine or imprisonment, but removal from office alone, and the authority to investigate all the facts and enforce the penalty for it is not fine or imprisonment. There being now a Legislative recess, the jurisdiction and the power to award the penalty is in the Governor. It is suggested, I am told, that before he can remove the conduct must be tried by a court or inquiry. This is absurd.

the jurisdiction and the power to aware the penalty is in the Governor. It is suggested, I am told, that before he can remove the Commissioners the fact of their official mis-conduct must be tried by a court of inquiry.

First. Because the courts are not named in the law, either expressly or implied, as having any jurisdiction in the case.

Second. Because the Governor, who can alone render the judgment of removal, has devolved upon him the entire responsibility, and, that being so, it must be for him exclusively to investigate and decide the fact, and not avoid responsibility by referring it to the courts.

clusively to investigate and decide the fact, and not avoid responsibility by referring it to the courts.

Third. Because he has no right to call upon a court or jury to assist hun, and no one else has such right.

Fourth. Because, no matter what a court might find to be the fact, it could not, if found one way, award the only penalty that can be rendered, or if found in the other, deprive the Governor of his power to award it, or absolve him from the duty of doing so.

And lastly, because his power, during a legislative recess, is the same over the facts and penalty as that of the General Assembly when in session; and I suppose that no one will hold that that body could only act in association with, or in subordination to, any of the courts of the State.

It is impossible, I think, for a sound mind to entertain a doubt upon the point.

The long and well-settled doctrine of the President's power to remove officers under the Constitution of the United States is in conflict with such a theory. It is now, and has been since the organization of the Government, settled that the power exists.

The only doubt ever entertained about it was, that it was not coincident to the power was

The only doubt ever entertained about it was, that it was not coincident to the power of appointment, but that as that power was in the President and Senate jointly, a removal required the sanction of both. Neither in the debate when the question was first agitated, nor in any that has since been had, was it intimated that if the power had been given in express terms to the President, he could not exercise it, or that it was not his duty to do so without the aid of any other body, legislative or judicial.

Upon the whole, therefore, I have no doubt that it is given to the Governor alone (the Legislature not being in session) to investigate into the trath of the alleged misconduct of the Police Commissioners, and to remove them, if he is satisfied that they have been guilty of "official misconduct."

Yours, respectfully,

REVERDY JOHNSON. was, that it was not coincident to the powe
